

Albion Delander Has Record Of Efficiency

Albion Delander, the efficient county clerk of Will county, is a candidate for re-election this year. He will seek re-nomination at the primary April 8 on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Delander has set a wonderful record for efficiency during his seven years tenure of office. During this time he has turned over to the county excess earnings after all of his expenses were paid of over $45,517.43.

During his term he has devised a new and complete modern index system for births, deaths and 44,613 marriages has been established.

The office of county clerk is an important one as the clerk has charge of the files and records of civil and criminal cases, special assessment, insane, inheritance, tax, dependant and delinquent children, and mothers pension cases of the county court.

He also keeps all records and proceedings for the board of supervisors and has charge of county primary and general elections.

Mr. Delander's office has always given courteous, prompt and efficient service to the public and Mr. Delander should be returned to this important office with an overwhelming vote.

Mokena Considers Organization Of Boy Scouts

There is an expression among those who know "Boys will be Scouts." This has been watched countless times by interested parties and it is very true. If they are not one kind of Scout, they will be another. Just at present there is a movement on in Mokena to give the Mokena boys real Scouting of the right kind.

Field Executive McConnell, of the Rainbow Council, met a group of interested citizens of Mokena last Saturday night at the Mokena public school and discussed with them the plan of organizing Mokena boys into a Scout Troop. It was that best to investigate the matter thoroughly before attempting to organize. However, the group appointed Ona McGovney chairman of the Mokena community to investigate and promote Scouting here. The group present suggested names of boys of Scout age. The parents of these boys are to be interviewed as to their stand on Scouting by the members of the group present. On Saturday night, March 1st another meeting will be held at the school to proceed further with the business of organizing a troop, if at that time it is felt that a Troop is wanted.

Field Executive McConnell emphasized the fact that organizing a Troop of Scouts presents a man problem rather than a boy problem. The boys will join, once they know there is to be a Troop. The problem arises to get men to direct the Troop. There must be three and there may be four or five adults who will register as committeemen who will be the advisory board. There must also be one man who must be an American citizen over twenty-one years of age who will register as Scoutmaster. He may have one or two assistants who must be over eighteen to register. Once a committee is selected by the community, it is one of their first duties to select and endorse a Scoutmaster. Then they should arrange a meeting place and call the first meeting.

A boy must be at least twelve years old in order to join the Boy Scouts. Each boy must pass the so called "Tenderfoot Tests" to the satisfaction of his Scoutmaster before he is ready to register. As soon as eight boys have qualified as a Tenderfoot, they can register as a Troop and obtain a Troop Charter from National Headquarters in New York City. Once a boy registers, he is eligible to wear the Scout uniform and insignia.

To advance, the boys must study certain designated tests and upon completing tests for each grade he may step up to Second Class Scout, First Class Scout, Star, Life and then to the much prized rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rank obtainable in Scouting.

No parent should consider Scouting as a waste of time for their boy. The organization has a twofold aim—the development of citizenship and leadership. Our slogan is to the effect that the boys "Learn by Doing." True, much of the scouting is play and even the instruction and test passing are handled as games but there is much more to Scouting than hiking and camping.

ROSE CHAPTER GARDEN NOTES

Mrs. H. D. Robbins, Publicity Chairman

The Rose Chapter met for a brief session Thursday, February 6. The feature of the day was a Valentine party with Mrs. R. Hicks as hostess and officers of the Tinley Park Garden Club and Mrs. Wm. Semmler of Mokena as honored guests.

Mrs. W. Combs extended greetings, then read two letters received from foreign correspondents, relative to flower culture in India and Tasmania. This was followed by an illustrated lecture delightfully given by Mrs. M. Andrews on Wild Flowers and Rock Gardens.

The amusement part of the program consisted of games with appropriate awards, and this was very cleverly arranged by Lois Dever, Olga Murry and Ruth Bates.

An elaborate luncheon was served in the dining room which was gaily decorated with a profusion of hearts for the occasion. The table extended the full length of the room and was an object of beauty. There were artistic baskets in red and white with place cards attached, and filled with candy hearts bearing humorous sayings which were cause for merriment. Lovely valentines were favors also at each plate. The hostess prize gift was a handsome pillow in rose and gold and was awarded to Mrs. Wm. Semmler of Mokena.

In a flower contest, Mrs. Andrew was awarded a lovely tray depicting a bowl of poppies.

The guests were: Mrs. R. Hug, Mrs. J. Funk, Mrs. J. Swisher, Mrs. F. Baldwin, and Mrs. Wm. Semmler. The next meeting of the Rose Chapter will be held in March with Mrs. W. Kester as hostess. The program will be a round table discussion on garden planning and bulb forcing.

Lockport Teacher In Will County School Supt. Race

Republican voters at the next primary election will find a new name on the ballot when it comes to choosing a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools. Millard F. Stone, who has been Superintendent of South Lockport School for the past ten years, is seeking the Republican nomination for that office, opposing Mr. August Maue, the present incumbent, who has held the office for three consecutive terms. A very spirited contest is expected.

Mr. Stone has been in the teaching profession since 1910, with the exception of the years 1917-1919, during which time he served in the United States Army. He spent one year with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. He is a past commander of John Olson Post No. 18, of Lockport, and he takes an active interest in all of the activities of the Legion. The Will County Council of the American Legion recently chose him as finance officer, which office he has formerly declined, due to his entry into politics, the Constitution of the American Legion providing that no candidate for public office shall be permitted to hold office in the Legion.

Recent courses in education have given Mr. Stone a familiarity with modern trends in school management and supervision. His ten-year record in his present position is evidence of his ability as a teacher and school executive. His interest in the educational welfare of boys and girls under his charge is indisputable. Some of the pupils of his school have completed the regular eight-year course in six years, and later made excellent records in high school. He has carefully studied the individual needs of his pupils, in which work he has had the most earnest co-operation of his teachers. The schools of Will County will be benefited by the type of supervision that Mr. Stone is able to give.

Mr. Stone is married and lives in Lockport.

Only One Petition Filed In Frankfort

From present indications town politics in the town of Frankfort will be pretty tame this spring. The caucus system of nominating candidates having been abolished, the candidates have to file petitions with the town clerk. So far only one petition has been filed with Henry Geuther, the town clerk, this being the Republican petition. The candidates filing all are seeking re-election. They are:

For Supervisor, Wm. Kampe
For Town Clerk, Henry Geuther
For Assessor, Joe Kohl.

All town officers elected this spring will hold office for a three year term under the new law. No other petitions have been filed so far.

The petition system of nominating candidates for town offices as in force now is not meeting with popular favor, consequently a proposition will be submitted to the voters of Frankfort township at the town election, April 8 to re-instate the caucus system.

The last day for filing petitions with the town clerk is Feb. 25th.

Matilda Scheer Weds Philip Triem

Friends of Miss Matilda Scheer, daughter of Mrs. John Scheer of New Lenox Township, were pleasantly surprised last week when the announcement was made of her marriage to Philip Triem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Triem of Monee.

The ceremony took place Saturday, February first at three o'clock in the Scheer home with Rev. G. Gerholdt of the St. Peter's Evangelical church of Frankfort officiating.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

No path of roses stretched forth its welcome to Lincoln—the boy. No marble halls sheltered him. No private tutors or learned professors to guide his path to education and fame.

'Twas but a lowly log cabin that he called home. All but comfortable, it was the scene where he oft studied far into the night to gain the knowledge of which poverty had threatened to cheat him. And in his youthful determination and perseverance, he overcame all obstacles and succeeded in laying the foundation for the master mind that was his when our nation needed it most.

NEW STYLES IN JUNIOR COATS; FLOUNCES BEDECK EVENING GOWN

WHEN Miss Junior ashopping goes for to buy herself a new spring coat, she will discover that belted and capelet types are the thing this season.

Having established the fact of these stylepoints firmly in her mind, the question of what's smartest in coatings will then arise. First to mind comes tweeds, when chic worsteds are under consideration. Tweeds deserve a paragraph all their own for there are tweeds and tweeds, some of zephyr weight, soft to the touch and of lacy weave, others sturdy and mannish, accessories made of the same material as the coats or if not of the actual weaves, at least related in color.

For Evening Wear.

What a dull prosaic world this would be, now just wouldn't it, if "fickle" fashion should decide to settle down to a year-to-year changeless existence? Which is a word in defense of the startling new silhouettes which have all but created a near-panic among fashion's followers. After all, maybe these long, longer, just the thing for school and travel wear. However, the loose woven tweeds are newest. Their lacy texture makes them delightfully wearable.

A SMART COAT MODEL FOR THE JUNIOR

The girl's coat in the picture is of blue and gray tweed. According to fashion requirements, it is belted at the waistline. The swankiest thing about it is its jaunty little shoulder cape. It shows a new collar line, too, which stresses a flat tailored treatment.

Monotone woollens in soft light colorings are sponsored, wool velvet being one of the newer weaves. Gray green is a favorite color, also grayed blue and yellowish tweeds are exceptionally good. There are quite a few reds on the fashionable color list.

When a coat is minus a cape then it resorts to a novelty collar to give it distinction. Frequently these colored models are enhanced with fur, lapin registering among preferred pelts. These fur collars define cravat styles, Johnny types and sometimes small shawl types are featured in conjunction with capes.

While wool jersey is not, strictly speaking, a representative cloak material, yet for the long-coat ensemble it is in high favor. Handsome costumes for young girls include a dress of lace jersey whose openwork patterning makes it very attractive. The one-piece frock is topped with a long capelet made of the plain jersey.

Other items of interest in connection with junior coats are yokes which are adroitly seamed in, also the use of buttons as a trimming, also hats and longest hemlines and short, shorter, shortest waistlines are "blessings in disguise." At least, they give answer to that ever-resounding cry for "something different."

And such a flounce, flounce, flouncing as skirts are receiving at the hands of our contemporary stylists. The new frocks almost out-flounce the muchly be-flounced creations which not long since we considered hopelessly old-fashioned and quaint. We may as well, however, from now on and until further notice, give serious consideration to this matter of flounces, for they are most decidedly in the modern style picture, and truly beguiling.

It took yards and yards—plus of black tulle to flounce the stunning all-black formal evening frock herewith illustrated. The bodice top of this exclusive Jenny model being tight-fitting and svelte accents, by way of contrast, the bouffancy of the flounces, thus contriving a silhouette which is new among the very newest.

There is really no getting away from flounces when it comes to the new picturesque evening gown types. The single, wide, circular flounce which de-

EGG DISHES

The secret of egg cookery lies in the simple principle, which is a rule with all protein foods, that is, never to cook them at a high temperature, as heat toughens and hardens protein foods. Eggs being the most delicate of these foods should have especial care in cooking.

When we speak of eggs as boiled hard or soft, we do not mean boiled at all. Eggs will cook hard at 170 to 180 degrees, depending upon the length of time to which they have been subjected to the heat. Eggs to be cooked in the shell, if desired hard, should be placed in a saucepan, using one pint of boiling water for each egg that is of room temperature when put into the water; if taken from the ice chest, more boiling water will be needed to cook the egg. Cover closely and let stand on the back of the range or in a warm place for 30 minutes. The egg is then hard cooked, but the white will be tender and easily digested. If a soft-cooked egg of various softness is desired, remove at six, ten or twelve minutes. Once the principle is learned for cooking eggs in the shell it is learned for other forms. Low temperature, below the boiling point, is used for poached eggs. When cooking foods with eggs, place the dish in water, especially in the oven cooking. A successful meringue is one that expands by long slow cooking in the oven for 20 minutes in an oven of 250 to 300 degrees.

THIS AND THAT

A good bread maker has reason to be proud of her accomplishment. For the making of good bread is both an art and a science. The knowledge of the materials that go into it, the art of kneading and baking.

One must remember that yeast in any form whether wild, dry or compressed is a plant that needs heat, moisture and food to make it grow. Then after the yeast has been softened it is mixed with the ingredients so that the budding plant may have plenty of chance to work in all parts of it, hence the importance of beating and mixing well. Then the temperature of rising is important. In very cold weather heat is necessary to keep the plant growing, usually the temperature of the kitchen is sufficient. After the rising comes the kneading. This is another process to mix the yeast well with the flour that is added. Knead the loaf, turn, another motion of kneading, turn, keep up this process until the flour and yeast are well mixed. Too much flour makes the bread dry; it cracks while baking. A good rule is to knead the bread until it seems right, then plunge the finger into the mass; if it comes out easily without much sticking the bread is ready to make into loaves and put to rise again.

Cover tightly after beating all together and add about five cupfuls of flour in the first mixing then when it is risen add three more for the kneading. Let rise until double in bulk. Place light bread into a hot oven to kill the yeast at once, or bread will be too light and coarse when baked. One hour for baking the ordinary sized loaf is the usual time. The crust should be brown, thin and tender, dome-shaped and well done to the center.

For those who enjoy an occasional loaf of salt rising bread the following recipe is reliable. Salt rising bread must be attended with more care than the ordinary yeast bread as to warmth:

Salt Rising Bread.—Use graham flour which is said to be the quickest in action, although some prefer a mixture of corn meal and wheat flour. Scald the bowl, add three-fourths of a cupful of scalding water, cool to a heat below the boiling point but much hotter than for other yeast, add one-fifth teaspoonful of salt, a small pinch of soda and thicken with the graham or other flour. Stir, keep warm twelve hours and proceed as follows:

Do not add the salt or soda to the mixture while rising. It is the wild yeast from the air and materials used that supplies the yeast. It is best unless the heat can be uniform throughout the rising to set the bowl in water in a fireless cooker. When light add one pint of warm milk, one pint of water and flour to make a thick batter. Now beat well and place to rise again, in a warm place away from a draft. In two hours the bread will be light enough to handle. Now add soda and salt and knead into loaves. It must be handled much softer than ordinary bread. Let rise and bake as usual, using care not to jar the loaves while baking.

Jelly Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of graham crumbs, one cupful of tart jelly or jam, add a bit of sugar if needed and whip until it is dry. Mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

MOST PEOPLE HAVE A FAMILY CIRCLE

They have relatives living in other places—some near, some far. And they keep family ties alive... by telephone. It is very easy to make out-of-town calls and it certainly is a pleasant way to keep in touch with your "folks."

Sons and daughters away at school... perhaps an older son working his way to success in another city... your own parents, still living in the home of your childhood... dear friends moved away... all of them are as near as your telephone.

Some persons set aside a certain hour each week for telephone calls like these, which mean so much. From the quiet of their own homes they telephone those they wish might be with them. Try it yourself. You will be repaid for the small cost many times over.

On calls to points approximately 60 to 300 miles distant the station-to-station day rates have been reduced recently in amounts which will mean a saving of more than $5,000,000 to telephone users of the United States.

The reason why birds migrate is a mystery to biologists. They have been studying for hundreds of years to find out and are as much in the dark today as they were 200 years ago, according to Dr. Alexander Wetmore, president of the American Ornithological union.

Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.—John 14:27.

The first I have used to stimulate my ambition and to make myself dependable and honest; the second to develop fair and honest treatment of others; the third to help me to be courageous and unafraid. The prayer I have offered most, and thousands upon thousands of times, is "to be good and to do good and to follow the Master."

Song of Mokena Garden Club

If you have a tree that's but a stub,
Ask the Mokena Garden Club
And before the end of nineteen thirty
They will tell you how to make it pretty.

We are but Amateurs you know
But you watch us plant and grow
To till the soil and plant the seed
Is much enjoyed by us indeed.

God sends us sun and wind and rain
And if we are clever we will not retain
Those weeds that come in the row
To hinder those little seeds that we did sow.

Better homes and gardens too
You will find gives us much work to do
But surely we do not mind,
For flowers help us to be true and kind.

Did I forget something, Oh! let's see
Why Yes! Our executive committee
There's our own Hon. President Mrs. Braun
Helped bring garden club to town.

Our Vice-president Mrs. Tooley
Always ready to help us, Yours Truly,
There's our secretary Mrs. A. C. Hall
Loved and appreciated by us all

Our Treasurer Mrs. W. H. Bechstein
We are always glad to see her and keeps book very fine
Our Publicity chairman Mrs. Bartel
Who writes up the news for the type so well

Corresponding secretary Mrs. If you have a tree that's but a F. Steele
Who treated us recently to a very fine meal
Our Program chairman is Mrs. H. Mall

There is a flower committee of three
Who when you are sick will think of thee.
We have all kind of members in this organization,

And among us is never a cause for vexation.

CHAPTER XV

Caught by the British at Wakaya

The island was Wakaya. Several old sailing ships were in the harbor. We gazed at them with hungry eyes, and eager plans of capturing one ran through our minds. Natives on shore spied us, took us for shipwrecked sailors, and put a boat out to meet us. It suited our plans to let them go right on thinking we had been shipwrecked. That might make it much easier for us to get some information about the vessels at anchor. Leaving a couple of my boys in the boat, the other four of us accompanied the natives to their huts, where they treated us hospitably. They were a simple, trusting people. Several half-breeds and a couple of white men, however, looked at us suspiciously. One half-breed was particularly offensive and insisted on asking us many questions. We did not like his behavior at all.

Kirchheiss and I took a walk along a path in the woods to talk over what seemed another menacing situation. A white man came galloping by on horseback. He was pale with excitement. He slowed down for a moment, gazed at us, responded curtly to our greeting, and went on. Thoroughly alarmed, we hurried back to the village. Some curious business was afoot, and we were determined to find out what it was.

"Our last half gallon of rum," Kirchheiss murmured regretfully.

"Yes," I responded. "It is too bad, but it will go to a useful purpose."

We got hold of the half-caste who had been so inquisitive. The white man we had seen on horseback was with him. Something, indeed, was afoot. We talked casually with them and then suggested drinking. They were interested, and became enthusiastic when we produced our half-gallon of rum. In the half-breed's hut we staged a drinking bout, which lasted half through the night. Nothing like rum to make men friendly and conversational. The half-breed got so conversational that he blurted out:

"Why, you're all right. But at first we thought you were Germans. We could get fifty pounds if you were Germans."

Now, as an American sailor would say, you've got to "hand it" to the English. They know how to spend money when it is useful. We Germans are usually more niggardly, or "careful" some might call it. We will try to save a mark and then lose thousands. Having received the wireless warning from the resident at Aitutaki of mysterious armed Germans in the South Seas, the authorities in the Fijis had passed word among the natives to be on the lookout for us, and had offered a two-hundred-and-fifty-dollar reward to anyone who turned in definite information about a party of Germans posing as neutrals.

It was clear enough that the half-breed and the white man had been plotting to hand us over to the authorities, but how far they had gone we did not know. We didn't find out that night. It was not until later that we learned the white man's horseback ride had been to give a warning about us to the captain of a cutter in the harbor, and that the cutter had at once shoved off to carry the message to the officials of the larger islands a day's sail away.

Not knowing this, we used a good deal of persuasion to put the idea firmly into the heads of the two men that we could not possibly be Germans. It may have been our eloquence, or, more likely, the genial influence of the rum, but, at any rate, they seemed to lose all of their suspicions and became convinced that we were the truest Norwegians from Scandinavia. Kirchheiss and I, somewhat the worse from our session at detective work, slept at the Englishman's house.

The four others were offered quarters ashore for the night, but two of my boys remained in the boat as a precaution. It was well they did, too. During the night, native swimmers went out to her and cut the anchor rope. They were put up to it by a Malay police officer who was suspicious of us. Not knowing any of my men would remain on board her, since she was only an open lifeboat, he planned to search her. So he sent his swimmers out to pull her ashore and beach her. The wind was inshore. The anchor rope cut, the boat drifted in. Our two men were asleep, and only awakened when keel jarred against bottom. Dark figures were around in the water, trying to pull the boat on the beach. Our men, pistol in hand, drove them away and then pushed out into open water.

On the following day, we made our final costly error. The ships in the harbor weighed anchor and raised sail. We picked the one that seemed the newest and arranged with the skipper to take us along with him to Suva, on the main island Viti Levu. Of course, our plan was simply to sail a few miles out to sea with him and then take the ship ourselves after donning our uniforms and getting out all of our weapons. A sudden squall blew up and forced the vessel back to port. We returned with her. And now we should have taken her while she lay at anchor. The people ashore would have seen what was going on, but we could have held up the island and then put to sea, storm or no storm. That was our first impulse. We should have followed it. Always trust your first impulse—at any rate, if you go into the pirate business. It is the boldest and best. Instead, we chose a more cautious course. We resolved to wait until the following day and capture our ship when it had got out to sea. While we waited, another vessel arrived.

She was a beauty, too, and would have delighted any seaman's eye as she came sailing into the harbor. She had just arrived, we were told, from Suva. She ran regularly among the islands, carrying merchandise to the traders. She was a handsome three-masted schooner with auxiliary motor power, new, clean, and trim, just the kind of ship we wanted.

"By Joe," I said to my boys, "there's our ship."

We immediately dismissed all idea of the old windjammer we had intended to capture, and devoted ourselves to this new beauty. A council of war was held, after which Kirchheiss went to the captain of the vessel, which now had docked, and told him that we were Norwegians who, while making a cruise in a lifeboat, had missed our ship, which was taking coal from Australia to Suva. Could we not take passage with him to Suva instead of on the other slower old craft, so that we could get back to our own ship? We would pay regular rates for the passage.

"All right," replied the captain, a jovial, unsuspecting fellow. "Come aboard at eight o'clock this evening. We sail in the morning."

It was our plan again that, once aboard this lovely ship and out at sea, we would suddenly appear in our uniforms and hoist the German flag.

We made ready to abandon the lifeboat. Our belongings required careful packing. We put rifles, machine guns, cartridges, and grenades in our canvas bags, wrapped our naval uniforms around these, and then rolled each bundle in a couple of blankets and tied it securely. A casual handling would not reveal the armament inside. Each of us took a pistol in one pocket and a hand grenade in the other. At eight o'clock we went aboard the schooner. Our maneuvers had been made carefully, and we had attracted no undue notice of the people who were suspicious of us.

Aboard, the captain received us hospitably, and we went around looking over what we expected to make our next prize of war. And a prize she was, just a year out of the shipyard and beautifully finished in every detail.

I could hardly wait for her to raise anchor and get sail. But we had counted that brood of mental chickens before they had hatched, by Joe.

Profit System Ensures Consumer Fair Chance

If your goods are acceptable, or your services useful, you will receive a profit. If, on the other hand, your fellow creatures decide (wisely or unwisely, it makes no matter) that they do not want your goods, or that they will get on better without your services, then you will make a loss. The profit-making system is the only one under which the consumer can be perfectly sure of obtaining the article he wants—any other scheme can only mean that he will have forced upon him the article which somebody else things he ought to want.

Working for a profit on an individualistic system also ensures that the people who receive the goods are the

Childish Writing

When children begin to write they often do so from right to left. It is called mirror writing. When held up to a mirror it looks correct. Mirror writing has no special significance and it passes as the child grows older.

A steamer slid into port! The skipper of our clipper who was standing next to me said he supposed she had brought over the proprietor of the island. The new arrival lowered a boat. In it were a military officer and four Indian soldiers. The boat rowed straight toward our ship. We surmised at once that they were coming for us. Having received the message sent by the suspicious half-breed and the white man that there were six Germans on the island, the authorities had sent a force of military police to arrest us. There had been some delay in this, as the only available boat on which to send the police was a cattle steamer, the Amra, and she could not raise anchor for some hours. She had arrived now right in the nick of time, had communicated with the shore, and been informed that we were aboard the schooner.

The storm had cleared during the early morning. The palm trees ashore were ablaze with the tropical sunshine. The water under us was of the deep blue that you see only in the South Seas. A brisk, refreshing wind blew from the west. The boat with the officer and four soldiers came rowing with long, powerful strokes. The Indians wore puttees and those funny little pants that leave the knees bare. They carried no arms other than bayonets. The officer had a sword and a revolver. We could easily have shot them down with our pistols, or thrown a hand grenade in their boat, or held them up at pistol point when they came aboard. Then we could have captured the ship and sailed away. The steamer would have been powerless in the face of our machine guns. There were mutterings among my men. They were full of fight. We should, they urged, make the capture and get away.

I passed an uncomfortable moment of indecision. Our uniforms were packed in our bundles, stowed below. We would have to fight off arrest and take the ship in the guise, not of naval soldiers but of civilians, and as civilians we would have to raise our weapons against soldiers. That not only went against the grain, but it went against the unwritten laws of the game. There are many sporting traditions that are carefully inculcated in every German naval officer. If we could have fought in our uniforms, it would have been an honorable naval men. In the end, the odds would be all against us and the chances were at least a hundred to one that we would be captured before getting back home. If we fought as naval men and were later captured, we would be entitled to the treatment due honorable prisoners of war. If we fought in citizens' clothes, we were nothing more than international bandits and as such almost sure to hang finally from a yardarm. They say that all is fair in love and war, but this does not alter the fact that there are things you can do that are not playing the game. Of course, each side has its spies, and a spy, if caught, expects no quarter and gets none.

But during the War of 1870, and during the late war, too, we Germans were most severe with franc-tireurs, civilians who sniped at soldiers. It has been one of our cardinal principles that war must be waged by uniformed soldiers. In the World war, both sides were charged with introducing new methods of warfare that were not in accordance with the ethics of the game. But you will recall that even Allied cargo and passenger ships armed with guns to fire on submarines made it a general rule to carry gun crews of uniformed marines to handle the guns.

"No," I said to my men, "in the uniforms of our country we can fight. As civilians we cannot. At any rate, we are not going to drop a bomb down there and kill that poor defenseless police officer and his men in those short pants! There would be neither fun nor glory in that."

same as those who pay for them—a very important point. Based upon the interests of the consumer, it is the only system under which the consumer can ever stand a chance. We can make no money, we can do no good, unless we can persuade others to accept our services at the value that we and they jointly place upon them.—Ernest J. P. Benn, "The Confessions of a Capitalist."

Forbidden Fun

A Chinese boy of fourteen, according to the North China Herald, was involved in an automobile accident, witnessed the death of a pedestrian during a police battle with kidnappers, and was himself kidnapped and held for two hours. He was on his way to school when all this happened and, arriving finally, he apologized to the teacher for being tardy.

Like any normal boy, he realized that under no circumstances should mere adventures and pleasure interfere with his education.

JESUS HEALING AND HELPING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:1-9:34. GOLDEN TEXT—Himself took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Healing and Helping.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Healing and Helping. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Friend of the Needy. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-4). 1. The dreadful disease (v. 2). Leprosy, the most loathsome and hopeless disease known, in the Jewish ritual, was regarded as a symbol of sin. As leprosy was incurable by man, so only the divine physician could cure sin.

2. The leper's faith (v. 2). His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but not certain that He was willing to heal him.

3. Jesus' power (v. 3). He put forth His hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease depart, and instantly the man was cleansed.

II. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13).

1. The disease (v. 6). The victim of paralysis is helpless and disqualified for service.

2. The centurion's humility (v. 8).

He first sent the Jewish elders and then his friends (Luke 7:3, 6), because he felt his unworthiness. The case of this servant was so grave that his master brushed aside his timidity and personally appealed to Jesus.

3. The centurion's faith (vv. 8, 9). He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word, his servant would be healed.

4. The wonderful power of Jesus (v. 13).

He did not need even to see the helpless man, but only to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-law (8:14, 15).

She was sick of a fever. Jesus was invited into Peter's home to heal this woman. Upon entering the home He touched the hand of the patient and the fever left her, and she arose and ministered unto them.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34).

After stilling the tempest, Jesus crossed to the other side of the sea into heathen territory.

1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28).

These men were in a desperate condition (see Mark 5:1-17 and Luke 8:27). So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way. They wore no raiment and no chains were strong enough to hold them.

2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29).

They knew that He was the Son of God and that He had come to destroy the devil and his work. Among the demons there is no doubt as to the deity of Jesus Christ and as to the judgment to come.

3. Christ's power to deliver from the devil (vv. 30-32).

The demons quailed before Him, not daring to dispute His power.

V. Jesus Heals a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22).

1. Her helpless condition (v. 20).

She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years, not only from the disease, but at the hands of the physicians (Mark 5:26).

2. Her faith (v. 21).

Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure needed help.

3. Her confession (v. 21, cf. Luke 8:47).

She thought secretly to get the blessing, but Jesus perceived that virtue had gone out from Him, and had her make a public confession.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22).

He told her that it was her faith, not her touch that saved her.

VI. Jesus Opening the Eyes of Two Blind Men (9:27-31).

1. Their persistence of faith (v. 28).

These poor men had heard of the wonderful works of Jesus and desired to be healed.

2. The intelligence of faith (v. 27).

They cried unto Him as the Son of David, which showed that they recognized Him as the promised Messiah. The prophet had foretold such to be the works of Messiah (Isa. 29:18; 35:5; 42:7).

3. The challenge of faith (v. 28).

In reply to His challenge, they gave Him a definite answer.

4. The triumph of faith (vv. 29, 30).

Their faith brought them into touch with the Lord of life who revealed His power by opening their eyes.

Heroes and Cowards

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards; they simply unveil them to the eyes of men. Silently and imperceptibly, as we wake or sleep, we grow and wax strong, we grow and wax weak, and at last some crisis shows us what we have become.—Canon Westcott.

Faith

Faith is an almighty thing like the Eternal God Himself; therefore God seeks to prove and try it.—Luther.

"But, darling,
Mr. Puff is such a nice man!"

IT isn't the pipe that causes these embarrassing moments, Mr. Puff. It's the tobacco. Isn't it time you discovered Sir Walter Raleigh—patron saint of pipe smokers, who discovered how good a pipe can be? His favorite smoking mixture really is milder. It really is just about the richest, mellowest, mildest blend of choice Burleys you've ever smoked.

How to Take Care of Your Pipe (Hint No. 2) When breaking in a new pipe, smoke your first few pipefuls slowly. Don't let your pipe get hot. Fast burning discolors and burns the wood and bakes the oils in the tobacco before the pipe is properly "seasoned." Send for our free booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Pipe," by Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, Louisville, Ky. Dept. 95.

Ingratitude

"Don't answer the bell, Mary."

"The gentleman at the door has polished the doorknob very nicely while he was waiting. I appreciate his efforts but I don't want to buy anything."

Every man makes up his mind that the next traveling bag he carries shall cost more.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

"Used in Our Family For Three Generations"

Spencer, Ind. — "I can heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has been used in our family for three generations. My mother used it in expectant periods, at one time she felt she could never live through the ordeal.

Mrs. Etta Miller again so began taking the 'Prescription'; used it right up to the last. Her family physician asked why she was so much better this time than ever before. She told him, and he said, 'It is a good medicine.'

"I have used the 'Prescription' and it keeps me from being so nervous.

"My two daughters also have used it with very best results."—Mrs. Etta Miller, Route 1, Box 98, All dealers.

The Illinois Agricultural association, in convention in Springfield, January 29-31, approved a proposal, authorizing the association to invest up to $10,000, in launching a state grain marketing corporation, under the state co-operative laws.

Earl C. Smith, Detroit, president of the Illinois Agricultural association in 1929, was re-elected to that office for 1930 by unanimous vote of the delegates to the convention held in Springfield January 29-31. With the object of improving the administration and professional work of the charitable and penal institutions of the state, an association of the principal welfare officers of the state was organized at Jacksonville on February 4. The new organization is called the Association of Illinois State Welfare Institutions and its membership includes Director Rodney H. Brandon of the department of welfare, code officers of the department, and managing officers, superintendents, wardens and members of the institutions' medical and professional staffs. Gov. Louis L. Emmerson addressed the organization meeting.

President Wayne Hummer of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in a statement issued recently pledged the support of that organization to the Buy-Illinois-Products movement, saying, "The Illinois Chamber of Commerce is proud to have an opportunity to assist in the promotion of the 'Buy-Illinois-Products' movement and will continue its efforts not only to acquaint the people of our state with the tremendous possibilities that lie before us, but also to induce them to buy Illinois products, made and grown here, and thus add to the prosperity of our splendid commonwealth."

With the purchase of $379,944 worth of automobile license plates, St. Clair county took the lead over all down-state counties in the total of automobile license fees paid to the state, according to the 1929 figures announced by Secretary of State William J. Stratton; Kane county finished second with a total of $368,146.

The year 1930 has one outstanding Lincoln anniversary. On March 1, 1830, just one hundred years ago, Abraham Lincoln and the families with whom he was associated left the Little Pigeon community in Spencer county, Indiana, and started for Illinois.

The state's "Seed Chautauqua Plan," which was inaugurated seven months ago to acquaint Illinois farmers with pure seed laws and regulations, has served to double the demands for seed inspection, according to Clarence F. Buck, of the state department of agriculture. To acquaint the public with the necessity of seed inspection and analysis to insure the required degree of freedom from weed seeds, the seed inspection service conducted meetings in twenty counties and registered an average attendance of 48 farmers, seedsmen and agricultural students.

Officials of the state department of public health and the Illinois Parent-Teacher association are co-operating in what promises to be the most determined and extensive pre-school health campaign ever undertaken in the state. The announcement was made by Dr. Andy Hall, state health director. "Every school district in the state outside Chicago has been assigned to some nurse on our staff who has instructions to co-operate with the local parent-teacher association in the pre-school health campaign," said Doctor Hall. "The object is to promote the medical and dental examination of every child who will be ready to enter school for the first time next fall."

Sub-zero temperatures of the last two weeks, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has been informed by the department of agriculture, virtually have ruined Illinois' prospects for a fruit crop this year. The department based its conclusions on a survey of the peach belt by Joe W. Cummins, chief fruit inspector, for Director Clarence F. Buck.

With the splendid co-operation of the law enforcing agencies throughout the state during the past twelve months, the protective department of the Illinois Bankers association has brought about the arrest of 95 people who have defrauded banks.

Wencesl P. Hetman, Chicago, tendered his resignation as assistant director of the state department of purchases and construction to Governor Emmerson, effective February 1. Mr. Hetman has accepted the place of chief commissioner of special assessments for the West Park board of Chicago.

The annual convention of the federation will be held in the state house, adjoining the arsenal, the same week.

Over 10,000 ducks were estimated to be starving in the Illinois river bottoms in the vicinity of Clear lake, north of Havana, and in the Sangamon bottoms and Crane lake district, in a survey made under the direction of Kenneth F. Roahen, United States game protector. Upon receipt of this information members of the Izak Walton league financed the purchase of feed for the unfortunate waterfowl.

Gov. and Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson entertained justices of the Supreme court and their wives at a dinner at the executive mansion recently.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson recently attended the conference of the National Council for State Legislators, held in Chicago.

"Can beauty culturists cut hair?" That was one of the cases of statewide interest presented by Charles W. Vail, clerk of the Supreme court, when that body convened for the February term. The case comes from the Sangamon county Circuit court, where the constitutionality of the amendment to the barbers' act, providing that beauty experts shall not trim the locks of their customers unless they have spent three years in practice, was upheld.

Dr. A. C. Baxter, Springfield, has been appointed assistant director of the department of public health by Governor Emmerson to succeed Dr. Thomas H. Leonard, who resigned recently to enter the health service of California.

Attorney General Carlstrom has ruled that recorders are not entitled to assess filing fees for deeds filed on behalf of the state or an agency thereof. The question arose when the state filed 500 deeds for right-of-way on a highway.

Typhoid fever all but disappeared from Illinois last year, except in the southern third of the state, Dr. Andy Hall, state health director, has announced. This apparent victory over the disease is largely attributable to water purification and the sanitary supervision over milk supplies, declares Doctor Hall. Vaccination against the disease is also an important preventive. "The victory over typhoid," says Doctor Hall, "shows what can be done with diphtheria."

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson invited the state tax board, the Cook county board of review and the Cook county assessors to confer with him, State Treasurer Omar Custer, and State Auditor Oscar Nelson. The purpose of the conference was to hasten the payment by Cook county of taxes due the state.

Needless Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago. It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. To cure the cause of any pain you must consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Bayer Aspirin for immediate relief.

Twelve Years Mayor and Going Strong!

WHEN a man who has been mayor of a big city for twelve years finds out how to live, his words are worth listening to. Ex-Mayor E. N. Kirby of Abilene, Texas, discovered the simple way to health about ten years ago (he is now 64).

"I am now a new man, and as active as a boy," says Mr. Kirby. "I feel fine all the time and rarely have an ache or a pain, although for twenty-five years I suffered with rheumatism, and sometimes was unable to stand or walk. I would not give up my simple health discovery—no, not for five thousand dollars in gold!" That discovery was Nujol!

That's the wonderful thing about Nujol. Although it is not a medicine and contains absolutely no drugs, its harmless internal lubrication seems to make people feel better and look on the brighter side of life, whether they are old or young.

Of course you can understand why this is so: we all of us have natural poisons in our bodies that make us feel headachy, sick and low in our minds. Nujol, which is as tasteless and colorless as pure water, helps to absorb these and carry them away, easily, regularly as clock work.

Instead of drugging and irritating your body with pills, cathartics, laxatives, and other habit-forming drugs, give your body the internal lubrication which it needs, just as

A man considers life a grind—if his grist isn't worth grinding.

People are thanked for paying their debts—so many don't pay.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable prepara-

Night to Be Remembered

The "Big Wind" occurred in Ireland on the night of January 6, 1839. In Limerick, Galway and Athlone hundreds of houses were blown down and hundreds more were burned by the spreading of fires from those blown down. It was called "The Big Wind" because it is the worst of its kind known to the people of Ireland.

The Sunday School will meet at 10 a. m. C. L. Gardner, Supt. Morning worship at 11. We welcome all to these services.

An effort is being put forth in many communities in regard to finding out people's church relations. This project is carried on in order that the church may discover the needs of the community in which it is located and by having this knowledge may know what its task is. The object is to serve the community better. Such a survey has been in progress in Tinley Park for several months and it is hoped that it may be completed in the next month or so. A house to house canvass is the method of procedure in securing this information. Those participating in this enterprise would greatly appreciate the cooperation of all. You may cooperate by giving the information gladly when called upon.
